25X1

1. The airfield of Molotovsk (64°34'N/39°50'W), Arkhangelsk Oblast south of the railroad station, was about 3 km square and was being expanded. Soviet convicts did grading and rolling work on the landing field. A hangar was under construction.
2. An airfield was under construction northeast of Molotovsk. Work was being pushed.
Alluvial sand was being pumped to the landing field by day and night shifts to fill and level the area. *

25X1

Comment.

Location of the field cannot be determined from the statements. As alluvial sand was used as a fill the field was probably located on the shores of the White Sea and was possibly being improved as an airfield for landplanes and seaplanes.
